

Dealing with car insurance can be confusing and stressful.

Long forms and unclear policies make it hard to know what to do.

Waiting for claim updates can be frustrating and time-consuming.

One missing document can delay claims for weeks or even months.

Meet InSure. InSure makes car insurance simple by bringing everything into one app.

The prototype consists of 4 main pages, which are the Home, Claims, Manual, and Profile.

The user will be instructed to create an account of their own. If they do already have an existing account, they can tap the "Login" option below and will be directed to the "Login" page before continuing. It also has a feature where they can hide their password for security purposes by clicking the eye icon.

First, the Home page gives users a quick and simple overview of their account. They can easily see the status of their claims and the documents they have already submitted. It also has shortcuts to create a new claim, view saved drafts, and access their driver's license.

The Claims page shows all submitted and draft claims in one place. Users can start a new claim by filling out the needed information and uploading documents like photos and reports. A claim will only be officially sent once the "Submit" button is pressed; otherwise, it stays saved as a draft.

The Manual page contains the important instructions and guidelines for the insurance policy. It is divided into sections that users can click to read more. There is also an AI feature that helps explain or summarize the information to make it easier to understand.

The Profile page shows the user's personal details and insurance information. This includes their contact number, driver's license, vehicle details, and insurance provider. It allows users to easily view and manage their account information.

With this, drivers experience less stress and more confidence on the road.

People enjoy smoother journeys knowing help is always within reach.

Insurance providers serve customers faster with better communication.

Communities benefit from safer roads and stronger trust in insurance services. InSure. Launching Soon.
